

Welcome to May's edition of the i-Bulletin newsletter for Exporters.

We hope you have been enjoying the fantastic hot weather we've been having and not working too hard! This month's edition focuses on our next Export Expert course, Dangerous Goods Training and completing your export documents with the correct address.

Also, a gentle reminder that the invoice date does need to appear on your exports documents now. Please see last month's i-Bulletin for more details.

As always, please contact us with any queries.

Export Documentation Focus

Consignee Addresses

Invoice versus Delivery

When you complete your export documentation you are usually required to enter a Consignee address.

There are occasions when there is a delivery address noted on the commercial invoice as well as the sellers address. If this is the case then the delivery address should be inserted and overrides the sellers address.

This delivery address should also appear on the accompanying paperwork

i.e. Invoice and Packing List

Please contact us if more clarification is required.

Monthly Focus - Dangerous Goods

Over the years we have received many enquiries into the complex subject of 'Dangerous Goods'. On this basis we are running Dangerous Goods Awareness Training course in November.

This course is a basic introduction to the air, road and sea regulations involved with Dangerous Goods. By the end of the day, delegates will understand the regulations for the different modes of transport, be familiar with the classes and packing groups, be able to recognise the labels and be aware of documentation requirements.
